Familiar Names -- Forgotten Voices

Join host Charles Roberts for a magical evening of captivating music from the golden age of American popular song, as he presents the original recordings of the entertainers who kept this nation dancing and singing from the roaring Twenties to the eve of World War II. Drawing upon a lifetime collection of more than 10,000 78 recordings of this era, Charles will showcase personalities whose talents helped shape and define the popular music of a generation.

The line-up of performers will include such well-known and enduring talents as Bing Crosby, Fred Astaire, Louis Armstrong, Benny Goodman, Fats Waller and Billie Holiday. And there will be memorable moments from names perhaps now less familiar including Gene Austin, Ruth Etting, the Boswell Sisters, Russ Columbo, Al Bowly and Ethel Waters. Mr. Roberts will accompany the musical selections with commentary about the artists and their contributions to the culture of this bygone time.
